

25th Europhysics Conference on the Atomic and Molecular Physics of Ionized Gases

July 15-18, 2020 - PARIS

The welcome cocktail will be on July 14, 4 p.m. - the Bastille day - at ENSCP

General Information

ESCAMPIG is a biennial international conference of the European Physical Society, focusing on basic and applied plasma physics research. This year the conference is organized by Université Paris-Saclay, Laboratoire de Physique des Gaz et des Plasmas, jointly with Université de Paris, and will be hosted by the Ecole Normale Supérieure de Chimie-Physique de Paris – ENSCP (Quartier Latin - 5th district, Paris). The conference will consist of a mixture of invited talks covering general and topical themes, interactive workshops and posters sessions. The most cutting-edge contributions may be selected as hot topic oral presentations, and many others as regular oral talks.

Conference topics

1. Atomic and molecular processes in plasmas	2. Transport phenomena, particle velocity distribution function
3. Physical basis of plasma chemistry	4. Plasma surface interaction (boundary layers, sheaths, surface processes)
5. Plasma diagnostics	6. Plasma and discharges theory and simulation
7. Self-organization in plasmas, dusty plasmas	8. Upper atmospheric plasmas and space plasmas
9. Low pressure plasma sources	10. High pressure plasma sources
11. Plasma and gas flows	12. Laser produced plasmas
